Subject: Microsoft Settlement

G'day,

As a long time user of Microsoft products I wish to make a few comments about the proposed settlement.

Microsoft has done more than any other company in making computers a major part of people's lives. They have made software that has enabled anyone to sit down and use a computer, any computer. This would not have been possible without the great work Microsoft has done.

The proposed settlement is more than fair, in fact I believe that Microsoft is completely in the right and should be left to continue the great work they have started. Microsoft has done nothing wrong. It is the companies such as AOL that hide behind the courts instead of living in the real world where true competition occurs.

The proposed settlement will force Microsoft to make several major concessions to its operating systems and its business practices. The proposal will make computers more difficult to use, less user friendly and less innovative, unfortunately this may be the best solution we can come up with.

Microsoft is a great company and any harm that is done to Microsoft will cause only harm to the users of computers in the world.

I ask of you to accept the proposed remedies and let Microsoft continue being an innovative company.

Cheers,
Campbell.
